• OVERVIEW •

Pink Lake and Abrolhos Islands Half Day Nature Tour (No Lunch)

Hutt Lagoon, also known as Pink Lake, is a rare and magical lake on the coastline of Western Australia. Pink Lake is a salt lake in the Mid West region of Western Australia. The lake is not always pink but the distinctive colour of the water changes as a result of green alga Dunaliella salina, halobacterium Halobacteria cutirubrum, and/or high concentration of brine prawn.

The Abrolhos Islands are known as "the last secret area of Western Australia" and are famous for their mystery, magnificence and purity. Every year only fishermen, their families, and a certain amount of tourists are able to visit the island, so this area is as pure as ever. Most notably, tourists are not allowed to stay overnight on the island. At the same time, this is one of the most suitable snorkeling paradise in the world because the coral reef is shallow and has not been damaged, comparable to the Great Barrier Reef. The water temperature is maintained at around 20-22 degrees all year round, so it is suitable for swimming and snorkeling at any time.

Pink Lake and Abrolhos Islands Half Day Nature Tour (No Lunch)

You will fly to the Abrolhos Islands via scenic route. Enjoy the colourful and magnificent islands!

This trip will allow you to have a guided nature walk and snorkeling or swimming. None of the activities are compulsory. Snorkeling gear will be provided. However, you are recommended to bring your own masks and snorkels if you want to do snorkeling.

During the snorkeling, you will be able to see marine life and colourful coral reef.

Cakes and tea will be provided on the beautiful Turtle Bay.

On the way back to Geraldton, you will be able to see the Batavia Shipwreck Historic Site (Morning Reef, Long Island, Beacon Island) and the beautiful Pink Lake from different angles.

Please note: The product does NOT provide lunch.
