How to get there

• By Car

Located approximately 40km north of Cairns, takes about 45 minutes; approximately 25km south of Port Douglas, takes about 30 minutes.

Look for the Brown and White signs on the highway at Wangetti; the car park is just 100 metres off the Captain Cook Highway.

Please note due to limited internet/data coverage, some navigation systems may not recognise the private access road. Turn off the highway, then left at the road named Harry Freeman Drive.

- [Free] Onsite parking available

* Please note vehicles including camper vans cannot park overnight in the carpark. Gates are locked at 17:15.

• By Public Transport

Unfortunately there is no direct public transport available. Most visitors drive or arrive on a coach tour.

• OVERVIEW •

Cairns Hartley's Crocodile Adventures
Entry Ticket

Hartley's Crocodile Adventures is one of the longest continually operating tourist attractions in Australia. The business began in 1934 as a road house for weary motorists. Nestled in the picturesque Wangetti Valley halfway between Cairns and Port Douglas, the iconic attraction is surrounded by World Heritage-listed National Park. During the visit, guests can participate in a wide range of activities then relax on a cruise on Hartley's Lagoon to explore the natural habitat of the legendary Saltwater Crocodile.
